Speaking of records, this has been the record breakingest season that Ivoryton has ever known. Every successive week has topped the box office mark of similar weeks in years past. Even the rain hasn't kept Ivoryton customers from driving here from all parts of the state . . . Irving Stiefel, who handles the business management of the Playhouse, turns actor this week . . . Lovely Phyllis Holden has just been signed for a role in "Madame Capet," which Eva LeGallienne and Eddie Dowling will present in New York this fall . . . Remember Dorothy Scott? She played the lead in "Lysistrata" last year . . . Julian Caffrey is here on leave of absence from her modeling work with Bergdorf Goodman . . . Percy Helton scored his first Broadway success at the age of ten when he appeared in "The Return of Peter Grimm" for David Belasco . . . The bizarre sets for "The Warrior's Husband" mark Ivoryton's first departure from the tradition of realism. As usual, they were created by Herbert G. Andrews . . . Judie Parrish's mother is coming all the way from Dubuque, Iowa, to see her daughter act next week . . . Most pretentious of this season's offerings will be next week's presentation of the colorful Maxwell Anderson hit of the past season, "The Star Wagon."
